* Real-time Online Malware Protection: Hard to install viruses, ransomware, keyloggers, Trojans, etc. * Real-time Anti-keylogger: Malware won't see your keystrokes anymore. * Real-time File Scans: Quick scans to identify and quarantine malware. * Real-time Protection: Malware won't start and you don't have to wait while your system restarts after each attack. * Get protection when Windows is updating: Know if a security update is available before applying it. * Network Protection: Detects if a network is compromised. * Custom Definition Support: A custom scan or quarantine is created in seconds. * Cloud Support: Easily uploads malware to the cloud. * Self-Protection: Protects against attacks and vulnerabilities. * Protection for devices: Protects mobile devices. Included in the program is a real-time Internet security engine that scans, blocks, and quarantines malware. Also included is a powerful on-demand scanner that checks your system for malware and launches a cloud analysis and malware removal. Important: Keep the application as a secondary security tool and use a reliable anti-malware solution as the primary security program. There are two types of threats to be aware of: (1) real-time malware and (2) on-demand malware. On-demand malware is the type that automatically attempts to install itself without your knowledge or intervention. Real-time malware is the type that executes its malicious code in the background while your PC is running, without being visible to you. On-demand malware tends to be more elusive because it uses stealth techniques to hide its existence, so it's more difficult to detect. Real-time malware, on the other hand, is easier to spot because it attempts to have its code executed every time you attempt to run a program. Real-time malware occurs when an attacker is trying to install something on your PC without your knowledge or authorization. You will often see a pop-up alert telling you about the security threat. On-demand malware also is a real threat, but it attempts to sneak into your PC without your knowledge and install itself there. Real-time threats will continue to sneak in while you are using your PC and try to execute malicious code on your computer. In contrast, on-demand threats will try to slip in after you close your application and will not execute malicious code unless you have a virus definition file (

To assess the potential use of myocardial imaging with Tc-99m sestamibi to evaluate severe coronary artery disease, 11 patients with severe coronary artery disease and 15 normal volunteers underwent a standard protocol of myocardial imaging using Tc-99m sestamibi. Ten patients had positive myocardial perfusion images and 5 of them had defects on stress imaging. In the 15 normal volunteers, none of the patients had positive myocardial imaging; and 9 had defects on stress imaging. Therefore, the specificity of the test in the patients was 66.6% and the sensitivity was 100%. In conclusion, the myocardial imaging with Tc-99m sestamibi is an accurate and sensitive method for evaluation of severe coronary artery disease.Q: Self referential self join I have the following mysql table: CREATE TABLE `objects` (`id` int(11) NOT NULL AUTO_INCREMENT, `object_id` int(11) NOT NULL, `parent_id` int(11) NOT NULL, PRIMARY KEY (`id`)) ENGINE=MyISAM DEFAULT CHARSET=utf8 AUTO_INCREMENT=123; The object_id, parent_id and id all refer to themselves as foreign keys. I want to select all the object ids in a given tree, and only have a few rows to show. So I want all objects that are parents of the current object, and all objects that are children of the current object. I've tried: select id from objects WHERE parent_id = (SELECT parent_id FROM objects WHERE parent_id = 1); However I'm getting a parse error. I also tried: select id from objects WHERE (object_id = 1 AND id = parent_id) or (object_id = 1 AND id = parent_id AND parent_id = 1) This returns the same error. How can I get the data I want? A: The immediate problem is that your subquery in parentheses does not return a single row, so the entire statement is invalid
